WE REACH FOR THE STARS . . .

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater, Hail to thee,
Symbol of Democracy,
Strong and mighty you will stand
As God protects you with His hand.

Mifflin High, to thee we sing,
As in thy halls our echoes ring,
Thy colors of maroon and gold
Ever in our hearts we'll hold!

THE FUTURE WITHIN OUR HANDS

Let us compare our days at Governor Mifflin Senior High School with a long, beneficial journey. All through this trip we are striving to attain a goal — we are REACHING FOR THE STARS — the end of our long journey. Governor Mifflin sponsors activities which help us build the foundation for the undertaking of this journey. We are given the opportunity to become well-rounded individuals by taking advantage of what is given us, progressing in mental and physical development, and at the same time building strong character. The staff of the 1962 ARCHIVE would like to point out what our school has done to start us on the path toward gaining our hopes and aspirations — the path to the stars!

DEDICATION

MERRILL W. BEYER

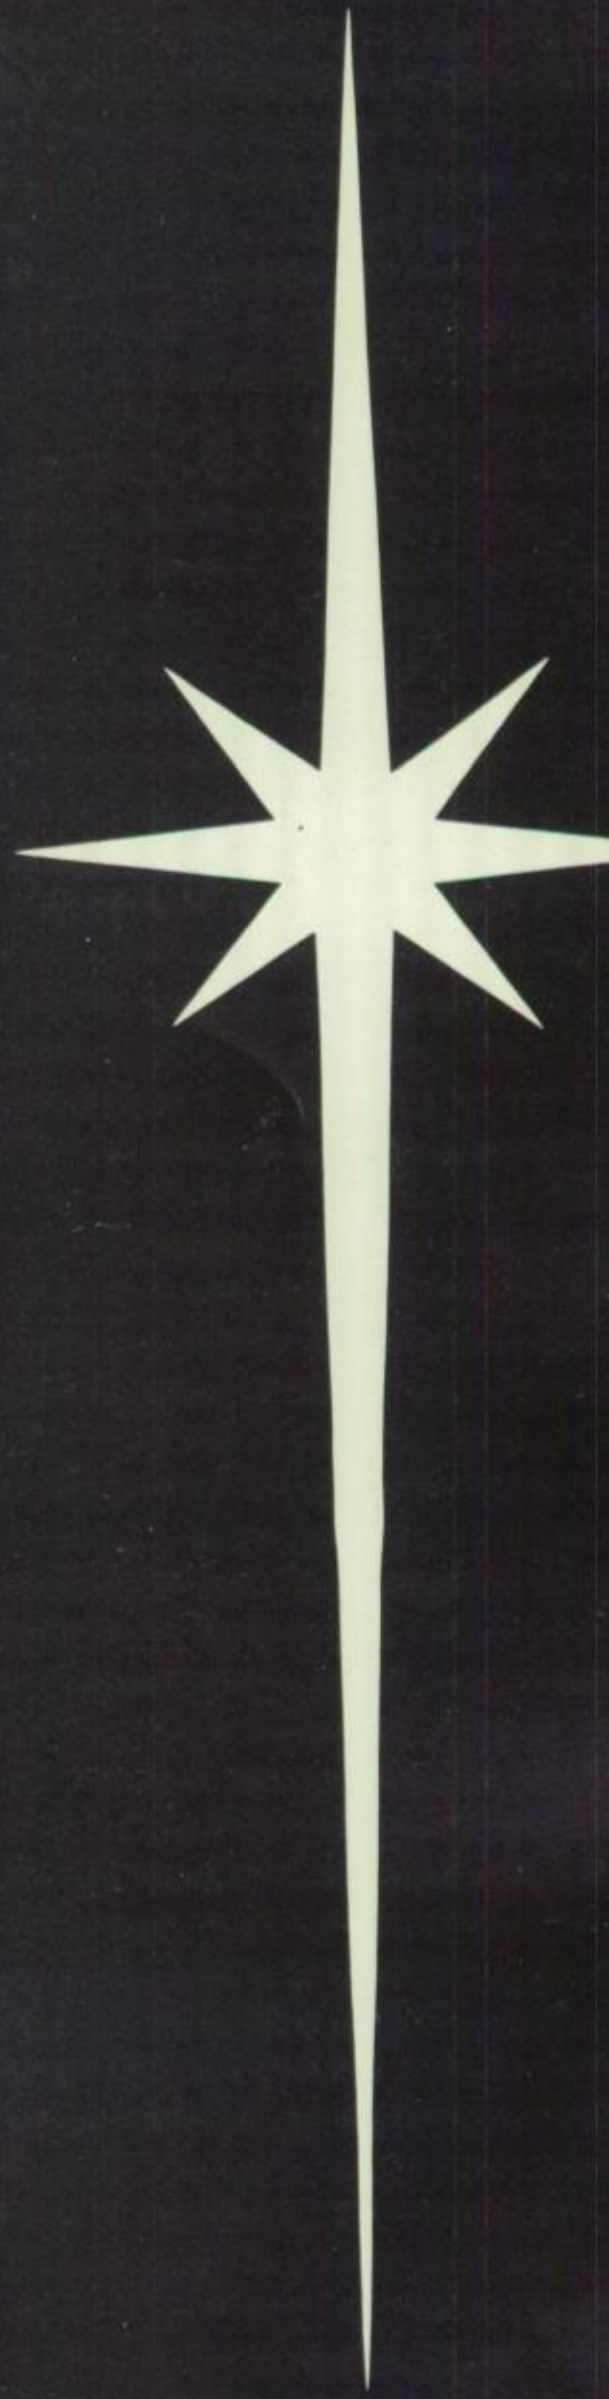

We the staff of the 1962 ARCHIVE, join together with the faculty and students of Governor Mifflin Senior High School in dedicating this annual to Mr. Merrill W. Beyer, senior class adviser.

The seniors are indebted to Mr. Beyer for his invaluable advice and for the many hours of effort he put into making our class projects successful.

Every project should have a goal — the seniors endeavored to attain success through combined efforts. We dedicate this book to Mr. Beyer in grateful recognition of his helping us REACH FOR THE STARS!

ADMINISTRATORS HEAD SCHOOL SYSTEM

Dear Students,

Norman Cousins in a recent article in Clearing House wrote, "Education fails unless the three R's at one end of the school spectrum lead ultimately to the four P's at the other — preparation for earning, preparation for living, preparation for understanding, and preparation for participation in the problems involved in the making of a better world."

It is my hope that the Governor Mifflin School System has provided you with a firm foundation at the three R's end of the spectrum. Realization and fulfillment of the four P's, to a large extent, rest in the future. May each of you pledge your life to an ultimate full development of the four P's so vital to personal happiness and world peace.

OF 4000 STUDENTS AND ADULT PERSONNEL

Dear Students,

Science fiction has given us the "future machine." With this device you are able to see and hear exactly what you will be doing at any time in the future. Preparation for the kind of life you will be living will be relatively simple with this machine. At the present time the "future machine" is only a dream, and it would seem that preparing for the world of 10 or 20 years from now is an impossibility.

Regardless of the changing world, there have always been basic values upon which to build. It is the hope of your parents, school, and church that you have laid a foundation tall enough so that when you REACH FOR THE STARS you will achieve your goals.

COMPETENT LEADERS ASSURE SOUND

Dear Students,

We are reminded by Robert H. Baker that at nightfall Nature invites us to forget for a while the things of earth and to look up to the heavens. It is indeed a peaceful time of day while the stars are coming out, a time for calm reflection.

REACHING FOR THE STARS is a gesture that man has employed from the beginning of time; it is a gesture of many meanings.

It is our wish that the stars for which you are reaching are the hopes, the aspirations, and the dreams that have become a part of you; that while the stars might always be beyond your grasp, they will continue to give your life purposeful direction.

This fine treasure of your high school years, which has been assembled by your classmates, will provide an abundance of memories and enjoyment as time and life separate you from the year 1962. IN MEMORIAM

DAVID A. RENTSCHLER

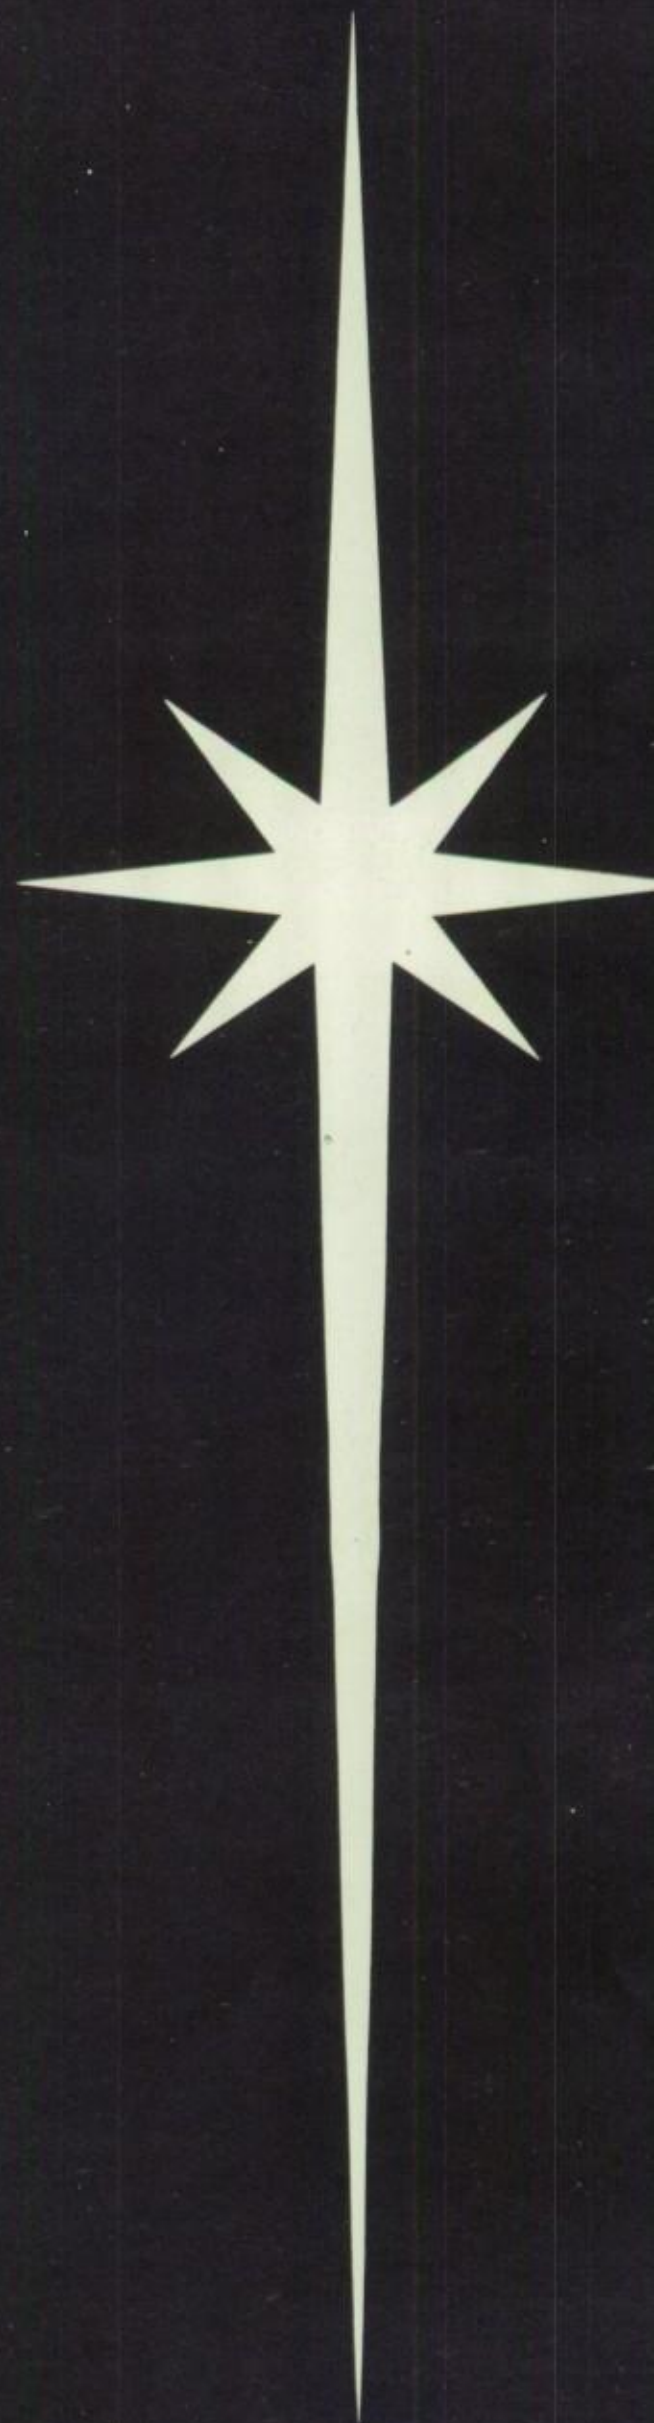

May 3, 1944

May 3, 1962

We bid a sad farewell to a friend and classmate who has "reached beyond the stars." We shall remember Dave in class, in sports, musical activities, publications, always active — looking forward to the climax of his high school years, graduation. In his memory we dedicate the Senior Class Gift. May his commencement into a new life inspire us to continue "reaching for the stars."

JUNIOR CLASS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE — Working together with the class officers in directing the projects of the class are representatives of each junior homeroom and the class advisers. They plan and produce the annual Prom and the class play. Juniors also buy their class sweaters this year, as modeled by T. Hoffman and A. Haines. SEATED at the conference table are Miss Pennepacker, Mr. Becker, and Miss Reed, class advisers. STANDING are W. Nawrocki, E. Huber, R. Burkey, D. Wick, D. Fisher, and D. Smith.

Whether they arrive by limousine or jeep, as E. Vogt and K. Overturf are doing, the juniors find an evening of pleasure ahead of them at the Junior-Senior Prom. After much hard work in preparing decorations and refreshments, the juniors are ready when the big night comes to entertain royally. This year they create a Hawaiian setting in tribute to our fiftieth state.

As the culmination of their project in child care, the homemaking class entertains some very young children. This afternoon is quite popular with the girls, who plan games, activities, and refreshments for their young guests and the mothers who accompany the children. Shown in the living room of the home ec suite are this group of students and their young guests.

Among the activities of the sophomores this year is the production of the Easter assembly. Mrs. Culbertson's sophomore English classes assume responsibility for this outstanding program on the religious theme of the season.

CONCENTRATE IN CLASS AT TIMES

The daily grind becomes monotonous at times for the peppy sophomores. With World Cultures, Biology I, Algebra II, Latin, English, etc., etc., the days go on and on, looking only toward homework, themes, term papers, projects ad infinitum. The learning process sometimes needs a little let-down to liven up the serious process of getting an education. Here the boys in drafting class clown a bit to relieve the strain.

Judging from the intent expression on Mr. Nelson's face, we gather that this sophomore English class is engaged in a serious discussion of some literary gem. "Now, just what is your interpretation of the last paragraph?" Could it be possible that the girls really understand the theme of the essay, or do they only appear to be concentrating on the matter under consideration?

Voice of the Mustang." Last year was our first attempt at adding this new dimension to our yearbook, and our school gained much publicity as the first high school in this part of the state to make an actual record of the year's outstanding events to be included in the book itself. It was such a success that we are producing another record to accompany this year's annual. On it are recorded excerpts from sports events, shows, class plays, concerts, speeches, Commencement, sports commentaries, to record the sounds of the outstanding events of our school year. In years to come we can still hear our classmates as well as read about them in the ARCHIVE, and this will bring back many fond memories of high school days.

CAST OF THE CURIOUS SAVAGE — J. Loy, S. Rea, E. Brown, R. Mohn, K. Krick, B. Kutch, A. Welder, R. Adams, T. Huntzinger, M. Custer, M. Davis. Miss Mary Jo Cannizzaro is the director of this rollicking comedy concerning the antics of a group of "Guests" at a rest home and what happens when the Savage family attempts to place their mother there and get their inheritance.

As we see in the picture above, the "guests" are in a world all their own pursuing their favorite hobbies. This is the background for all the fun of the play.

LIGHT-HEARTED COMEDY

Ethel Savage, clutching the teddy bear containing her money, obviously does not like the actions of her son and daughter and proceeds to bite her daughter to show this.

Here the "guests" demonstrate their version of the "hear no evil, speak no evil, see no evil" theory.

Mr. Peterson seems quite excited about finding a slipper after play rehearsal.

The Girls make a terrific fuss over Buck O'Hara, and he seems to be enjoying the attention.

It is evident Miss Moran does not approve of the new teacher, Miss Burgess, seeing so much of the history teacher, Mr. Carter.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

There is plenty of fun afoot for the play cast as well as the audience when they put on CURTAIN GOING UP. It is all about a class of typical seniors putting on their senior class play. Miss Burgess, the new English teacher, is coaching the play, with helpful hints from the janitor, and plenty of troubles from jealous teachers and quarrelsome students. What with the play books disappearing and the girls fighting over being the leading lady, things are pretty complicated, but all eventually works out fine and the play is a tremendous success.

Being a professional actress entitles Miss Roberts to giving numerous suggestions to her nephew, Jocko, and the entire cast and coach. She appears somewhat taken aback by the trying-to-be-helpful janitor.

Poor Miss Burgess is about to throw in the sponge with all the headaches she's had to put up with. Surely nothing else can go wrong, or can it?

Enter further problems in the form of the leading lady's father, Mr. Leveridge. As Mr. Donald Riley, the play director, can attest, this play within a play turns out to be quite realistic. But all's well that ends well.

"If I had My Druthers" I'd rather go fishin' than courtin' any day says Li'l Abner to Daisy Mae. Des Kelley and Lorraine Miller as the leading players are talking it over here with Mammy Yocum, Vicki Nunis.

Earthquake McGoon, Douglas Schonour, tries hard to win Daisy Mae, and is here holding forth with Marryin' Sam, Dennis Petricoin.

BROADWAY MUSICAL, "LI'L

For the fourth season, GM's Spring Swing brings a Broadway hit to our campus. Mr. Robert J. Cooper and Mr. Nicholas G. Geracimos work with a cast of some 60 students to produce a show which plays to capacity houses on March 30 and 31, 1962.

Moonbeam McSwine, Janice Rickenbach, doesn't like the honor about to be bestowed on Dogpatch as the most unnecessary town in the U.S.A.

William Schlipfert and William Haldeman find it's not so easy to convince the Dogpatchers that they should be honored to have their town bombed right off the map.

Moonbeam and the other Wives take in Marryin' Sam's words about their husbands in this gay three-act comedy.

Cowering behind the famous desk in "Bullseye's" office are Marryin' Sam, Pappy Yocum, Eugene Sweigart, Mammy, Earthquake, and Daisy.

ABNER," IS SMASH SUCCESS

It looks like a shotgun marriage in this scene. The cast, augmented by the aid of many behind-the-scenes helpers, spends three months preparing this spectacle for production.

Sparkling music and slapstick humor mark Li'l Abner, replete with authentic backdrops, costumes, and colorful choreography. An orchestra composed of students and adults of our area provides the musical setting for this, the fourth annual Spring Swing.

There's never been a hero to equal Jubilation T. Cornpone singing the Dogpatchers. And judging from the appearance of the town's residents and the statue, we can see why!

JUNIORS BID MEMORABLE

The Presidents of the Senior and Junior Classes with their charming dates are being served punch at the refreshment table. The Hawaiian theme is carried out even in the delicious food arrayed for the enjoyment of the dancers.

This group of dancers is seated at one of the attractive tables in the gymnasium, which is converted into a beautiful tropical island for the dance. The walls are decorated with fish nets and multi-colored tropical fish.

In the gorgeous setting created in the library the guests indulge in exotic delicacies provided by mothers of the host juniors. Murals and mannekins add greatly to the palm tree and orchid tropical paradise.

SENIORS A ALOHA

BLUE HAWAII is the theme of the 1962 Junior-Senior Prom at which the juniors are hosts to the members of the graduating class. The ceiling of the gymnasium is given the real appearance of clouds in the sky by the use of a giant parachute. Palm trees and flowers add to the effect.

Faculty members as well as students are obviously enjoying the most important social event of the year. All teachers are invited as chaperones. At this table are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hershey and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burger.

The ballroom, where guests dance to the melodies of Johnny Barker, is centered with a beautiful fountain. This forms an attractive setting for this group of students and their dates for the evening. It is truly an event to remember.

LOVELY LYNN ROCCO REIGNS AS

Lynne Rocco — Miss Mifflin 1962

Each year the students at Mifflin vote for the loveliest senior girl to preside as Miss Mifflin over the final dance of the year. Arranged by Student Council, the dance features the crowning of Miss Mifflin whose identity is not revealed until all the girls of the court are introduced. This year the honor fell upon Lynne Rocco, whose charm and poise make her a most acceptable Miss Mifflin.

Miss Mifflin and her escort lead the members of the court in the beautiful waltz.

STUNNING MISS MIFFLIN OF 1962

MISS MIFFLIN COURT — These handsome couples comprise the Court: D. Reeser, J. Minker, S. Miller, D. Kelley, J. Gongoll, D. Petricoin, D. Weisman, L. Rocco, C. Vance, Crown Bearer; R. Naugle, S. Cheeseman, C. Szczepkowski, J. Nunis, S. Raffauf, J. Pincavage.

Former Miss Mifflins are guests at the dance. Penny Piersol congratulates Lynne.

Adjusting the crown on the head of our queen is Cheryl Vance, as Lynne's escort assists with the beautiful bouquets.

BACCALAUREATE CHOIR — Services are conducted in the auditorium for the class of 1962, school personnel, and the families and friends of the graduates on Sunday, June 3, at 3 o'clock. The GM Mixed Chorus leads the hymns and sings two anthems, "Ave, Maria" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mr. Geracimos directs the Choir and Rosalie Mohn and Claire Troop are the accompanists.

BACCALAUREATE AND COMMENCEMENT

Beaming radiantly is Linda Curley, typical of the graduates being congratulated by her parents and grandparents.

The Reverend Samuel L. Koons, pastor of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Reading, and father of one of the seniors, delivers the Baccalaureate sermon on, "Four Qualities of Character: Look Up, Laugh, Love, and Lift."

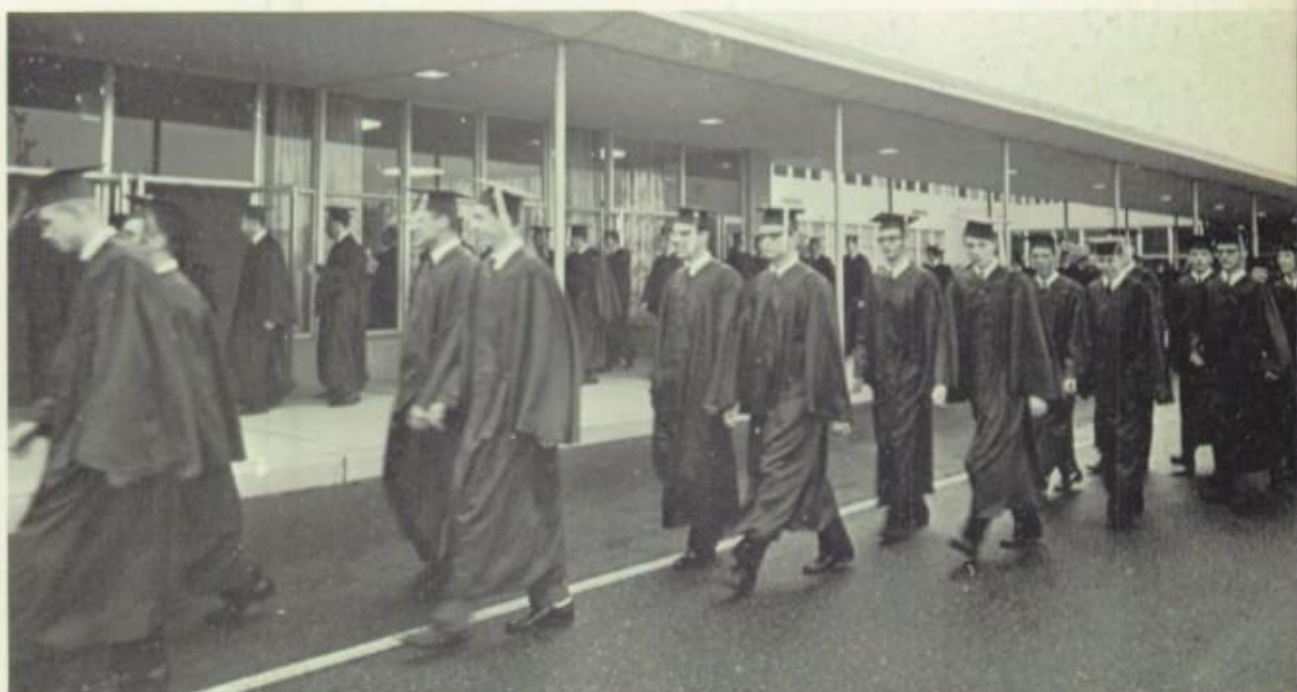

The seriousness of the occasion is reflected in the solemn attitude of the graduates.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES — Mr. Henricks, our supervising principal, has just pronounced the 189 members of the class of 1962 graduates of the Governor Mifflin Senior High School. This is the high point in the program at which 15 students receive the Award Elite, highest award earned in our unified award system, and 49 wards are presented by civic, church, school, and fraternal organizations.

CLIMAX GM LIFE FOR 189 GRADUATES

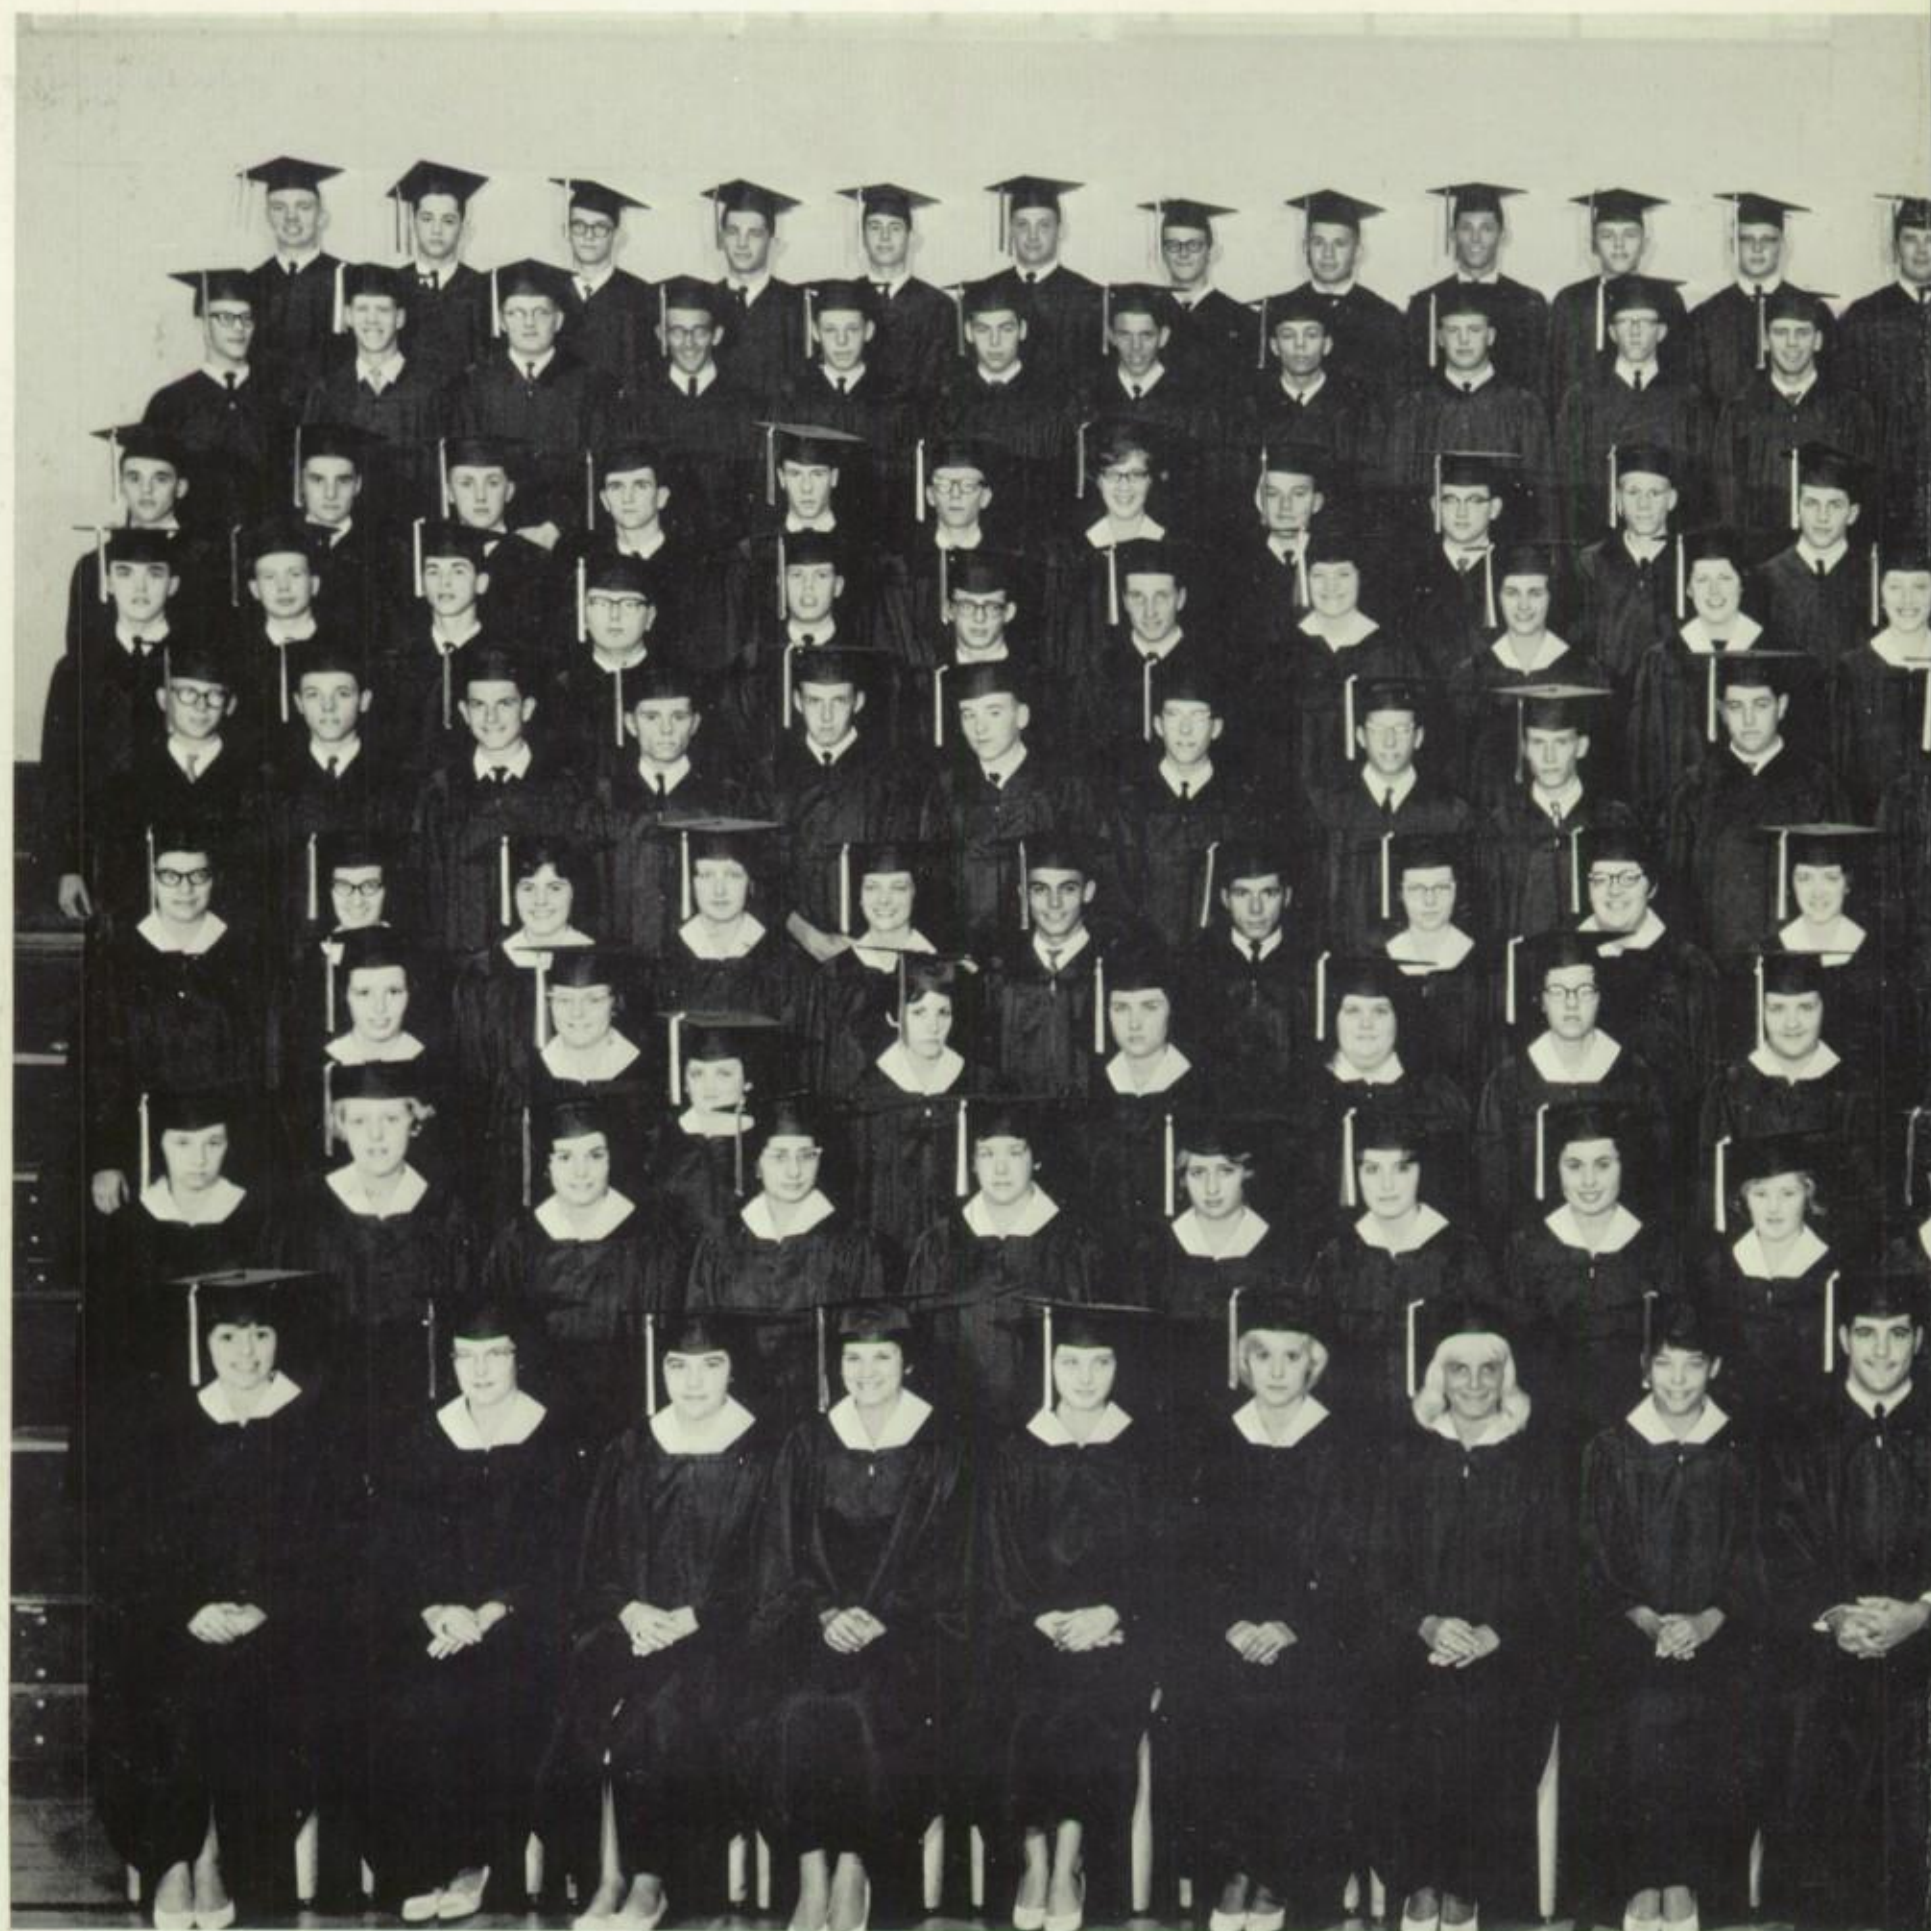

Seniors resplendent in green robes and green mortar boards with green and white tassels form lines for their processional into the auditorium. Fifty-six percent of the graduates will continue with some form of higher education. A total of $50,000 is awarded to class members in the form of scholarships. The student speaker for Commencement is Susan Rea, highest ranking girl in the class. She speaks on "Hands that Hold the World." State Senator Jo Hayes is the guest speaker.

An attitude of reverence is maintained as the Reverend W. Ronald Yocom, pastor of the Allegheny United Church of Christ Charge, pronounces the Invocation.

Barbara Beam smiles happily as she receives her diploma from Mr. Hendricks, as Mr. Steckel waits to present the next graduate.

During the year the full-time home economics classes plan and prepare delicious meals which they serve to the faculty. Here the girls are putting the finishing touches on the platters for a special luncheon.

Now as the lights are dimmed in the corridor and the students prepare to leave Governor Mifflin, some for the last time, others until a new school term begins, we reflect upon the goals we have attempted to reach this year and look ahead to the world of tomorrow when we shall continue to REACH FOR THE STARS.

OUR THANKS TO

The many people who helped to make this complete record of the 1961-62 term at Governor Mifflin Senior High School:

The faculty and staff for their assistance in assembling the material.

The Senior Class for financial aid and interest in the success of the book.

The Students for their cooperation and subscriptions.

Mr. Andrew Purdon and the staff of the Purdon Studio for the excellent photography and the tireless effort given to the taking and printing of the hundreds of photos in our book.

The American Yearbook Company and its representative, Mr. Neal Layser, for servicing and publishing the ARCHIVE.

All who have assisted and encouraged the staff and adviser.
